

Kindergarten Kids

This week: Jan. 30-Feb. 3, 2012

The Kindergarten class is off to Africa this week in our travels around the world! We listened to their music, language and learned to count to 10. We tried on dress-up clothes and had lots of fun.

I'm hoping that the Ready Reader books are out at your house and they are being read daily. You may have to help your child sound out the words since we are not experts yet! Daily practice will make your child a good reader! They are due each week on THURSDAY so I can get them ready to redistribute on Friday.

Next week Wed., Feb. 8, is the 100th day of Kindergarten! We will celebrate by doing some classroom and outdoor activities. You will find a plastic bag in the Fri. folder that has a sticker on it for 100 day. I want everyone to pick an item and find 100 objects to count. As an example, you could count 100 small toys, pennies, paperclips, straws, or whatever they wish to count. We will have them describe their bag on Wed., so have the bags back to school either Tuesday or Wednesday of next week. I will love seeing the collections!

The list for field trip drivers for Feb. 14 will come out soon. All that signed up to drive may come! If we have too many drivers, we can double-up.

The one and ONLY Open House this year is this Saturday, Feb. 4! Please come by the K room anytime from 10:30-12:30. I will be holding a meeting from 9:30-10:30 with parents who are interested for next year. Parents, please keep your children with you when you visit the rooms at Open House.

Next week: letter V

Kindergarten Academics

Bible: Saul was the first king. Sometimes he obeyed, but not all the time! We will be reviewing Psalm 100 one more week.

Reading: We had the letter P this week and will have the letter V next week as we make valentines for the residents at Chateau. It couldn't have worked out better!

Math: We started tally marks and will move soon to graphs.

Social Studies: Africa.

Have your child sing the continents song to you!

 Notice that the Feb. reading chart has 2 sections! Your child can record letterbook stories and booklet stories too that they re-read in this section.
